The Instructor

Jeff Bert began his law enforcement career with the Los Angeles Police Department in 1996. He served the residents of Los Angeles for the next 24 years working a variety of operational assignments including patrol, investigations, narcotics, vice, and various administrative assignments including Youth Programs, Legal Affairs, Public Information Officer, and the Department Risk Manager. In July 2020, Bert honorably retired from the LAPD to become the Chief of Police for the City of Tomball, Texas. He leads a dedicated team of incredible officers and civilians who protect the City of Tomball with a community-oriented focus on serving the most vulnerable populations. Chief Bert lives in Tomball with his wife, Stacy and their youngest daughter. He and Stacy have four incredible daughters and way too many cats and dogs.
